Guide to Completing Form TC-7

Annual household tax return for the tax year 2026

Who must file

You must file Form TC-7 if you received income from more than one source during the tax year.

- You were self-employed at any time during the year.
- You received rent from a property you own.
- You sold shares, a business or a second home.
  - Employees with a single employer and no other income do not need to file.

Filing deadlines

Method	Filing deadline	Payment due
Paper return	31 October 2027	31 January 2028
Online return	31 January 2028	31 January 2028
Return prepared by an agent	31 January 2028	31 January 2028

Part A: Personal details

Print clearly in capital letters inside the boxes.

Surname
First names
Date of birth (DD/MM/YYYY)
Tax identification number

Filing status (tick one box)

☐ Single

☑ Married or in a civil partnership

☐ Widowed or surviving partner

Part B: Income

Line	Description	Where to find it
Employment income
1	Wages, salaries and bonuses	Form W-2 box 1
2	Taxable benefits in kind	Employer statement
Other income
3	Interest from savings	Bank certificate
4	Rent received less costs	Your own records

Line	Description	Where to find it
5	Gains from selling assets	Contract note

The standard deduction applies to every filer.[1] Subtract it from your total income on line 4.

Worked example

The example below shows how a filer with wages and a little interest completes lines 1 to 5.

```
Line 1  Wages from employer          42,300
Line 2  Interest income                 180
Line 3  Total income (1 + 2)         42,480
Line 4  Standard deduction          -12,800
Line 5  Taxable income (3 - 4)       29,680
```

Common mistakes

1) Forgetting to sign and date the declaration on the last page.
2) Entering amounts in cents instead of whole currency units.
3) Sending the return to the wrong office; use the address printed on the envelope.

Where to get help
Call the helpline on weekdays between 8 and 18 hours.

What to bring
Bring your income statements and last year's return.

[1] The amount is reviewed every October.