Guidance for New Committee Members

Joining a committee brings new responsibilities for every member. The administration of the association depends on clear communication between its officers. Members should read the minutes of previous meetings before their first session.

Good understanding of the budget is expected from the treasurer and the chair. Every decision about the shared infrastructure requires careful consideration of its environmental impact. Active participation in working groups is encouraged but not required.

The secretary is responsible for the implementation of agreed actions. Questions about the organisation of meetings may be sent to the secretary at any time.
